Democratic Landslide Thru Entire U. S.

Wilson Carries Over Forty States---Taft Gets But Two and Roosevelt Four. From Last Reports Received Indications Point To A Democratic Congress

36 MILES OF O. E. Ry.

NOW COMPLETED

Track Can Be Extended From Mile Post 20 To Harper Ranch And Will Go On To Tunnel Without Delay

The roadbed of the Oregon Eastern thru the Malheur canyon is practically completed as far as mile post 38, or rather up to the east portal of the 2500-foot tunnel. This was the statement made a few days ago to an Enterprise reporter by G. H. Chaffin of the Wasatch construction company.

Since the first of the year the Wasatch company has completed about five miles of roadbed grading and next week will complete an enormous cut at the beginning of mile post 38 on which a crew of men has been working since the operations were started in the Malheur canyon shortly after the first of the year.

The Wasatch people expect to have their contract completed in two weeks, when two big cuts containing 7000 yards of dirt and loose rock will have been finished. This done tracklaying can be rushed as far as the big tunnel.

Mr. Chaffin reports that concrete piers are being put in for the two steel bridges which are to be built between mile post 36 and 37. These spans are 200 and 300 feet long. —Vale Enterprise.

Wilson Wins!

This was the first authentic report over the wire Tuesday night, outside of that no definite details are obtainable for this issue concerning the general election throughout the whole country.

The only election news at the time this is written is somewhat meager and general. As is usually the case more is known of the result of the National election than of Harney County. People who 'phone in the results from various precincts give only partial returns and in some instances some half dozen candidates or less. Nothing definite as to the vote on state and district officers can be secured.

The democrats have made a decided and sweeping victory throughout the United States, Wilson and Marshall carrying almost everything with the exception of six states. There were a few states in doubt at the time this is written, but enough is known to show that Wilson has won the greatest victory of any candidate for president in many years. Taft is credited with but two states, both small. Congress will be democratic by a good majority, thus giving that party an excellent opportunity to carry out its policies without hindrance.

In the state election it is quite likely Dr. Lane has been selected as United States Senator, but aside from this office the democrats have not elected another candidate. Brooke is elected district attorney, Stewart has defeated Mahon for state Senator and Homan has been elected representative. Returns show that the court house question figured in the vote of every candidate for county office benefiting some and injuring others.

The bad storm of election day also had its effects upon some of the candidates as in some precincts the vote was very light.

According to a telegram received here suffrage has likely been defeated and perhaps every road bill has been killed. There were entirely too many bills on the ticket to receive just consideration from the voters and there should be some means of curbing Mr. U'Ren and his type imposing upon the privilege given for such bills to be voted upon. People generally know enough to vote such intelligently provided they haven't a whole newspaper to look over in the voting booth and the titles made plain. There were confusing titles on the ballot at this election and many hardly knew whether they were voting for what they thought they were or not.

It the county election the democrats secured but one man aside from Mr. Richardson who was running independent. Chas. Beery, for surveyor is the only democrat elected. E. B. Waters is re-elected clerk; J. J. Donegan, assessor; L. M. Hamilton, school superintendent; R. A. Miller has defeated Simon Lewis for treasurer and Thos. Bain is elected commissioner.

For a time it was very close between Donegan and Catlow for assessor and it was necessary to get the vote of the south-end precincts to determine who had it. Mr. Catlow brought in the re-

Will Make War On The Jack Rabbit Family

J. W. Thompson Of West Side Will Test Practical Scheme To Rid Country Of The Pests

J. W. Thompson, who is farming on one of the Stephens ranches west of town and who owns two O. V. L. tracks adjoining that property on the south, was in town Tuesday with a load of grain. Mr. Thompson stated that the jack-rabbits had caused him considerable trouble this season and reports that the pests have become quite numerous in his section. He came here from Nevada and says the rabbit is not new to him. He states that a very effective war is being waged against the varmints in that state by trapping them in the winter, and says that he will test it here. A number of moveable pens about 20 by 40 feet are built and set about in the brush, with alfalfa hay or some other enticing feed placed in the pens. Entrance to the pens is so constructed that the rabbits can go in thru V shaped wire fingers, the spring of which automatically closes them to prevent egress. Mr. Thompson says numerous rabbits will enter each of the pens during a night, and thus entrap themselves. The principal of his scheme seems entirely plausible and no doubt if it was practiced by several ranchers in the rabbit sections it would afford effective means toward extermination of the pests. —Lakeview Examiner.

VIRGIN COUNTRY GREAT-EST NEED IS R. R. LINE

Irrigable Lands Lying In Territory Near Bend, Burns, Klamath Falls And Lakeview Offer Untold Wealth

(By M. B. Rice, Lakeview, Oregon)

Often times we hear a story of a country of possibilities that sounds like a well-selected page from Aladdin and his wonderful lamp, and once in a while, a very great while, we find this wonderful story of promise based on statistics, the true character of its citizenship and actual crop production—such in short is the territory lying between Bend and Lakeview—the country of things to be says the Journal.

In the triangle with Bend to the north, Burns to the east, Klamath Falls on the west and Lakeview on the south, lies approximately 10,000,000 acres of virgin territory. About one-tenth of this acreage will be susceptible to intensive cultivation when the various irrigation projects already planned have reclaimed the land. While thousands of acres have been filed upon during the past two years, no great showing has been made by the homesteader because of lack of transportation facilities to carry the products of his ranch to a commercial market.

Grain production with a three-cent rate tacked on to the end of it may exist in theory but a practical demonstration of it on a large scale will soon lead to bankruptcy. The homesteader is therefore required to confine his energies to products and quantities necessary for home consumption.

The successful settlement of this vast acreage is greatly dependent upon three things: transportation, immigration and perspiration. In the proportion of each to the other is the fact that all working along a line of least resistance is necessary before any new country can be so far settled that it assumes a place in the commercial world. Singly a certain per cent of benefit may accrue, but working together these three links will people this vast acreage in addition to reclaiming to Portland a territory that is rich in resources but short on population. The reclamation of this central Oregon acreage, which may be called Portland's back yard, will open up what is destined to be one of the greatest wheat producing belts in the entire Pacific northwest.

First in order and importance comes transportation, important because the two remaining links are dependant upon this feature.

Wasatch Company To Finish The Big Cut In Malheur Canyon Near Mile Post 38 By Last of Next Week

Thirty-six miles of the Oregon Eastern roadbed are completed and ready to receive the steel rails said W. L. Wattis, chief of the Utah Construction company, while in this city Monday, Mr. Wattis had just returned from a trip through the Malheur canyon and reported all the roadbed grading progressing rapidly.

Construction outfits are strung along thru the Malheur canyon as far as mile post 82 beyond Riverside and with a mild winter the grading will be completed.

Unit-distance by next March. Mr. Wattis stated that the recent rains had made travel heavy over the canyon roads. He also reported that the concrete piers were being put in at the third Malheur river crossing, just this side of the long tunnel, for the two big steel bridges.

Work is progressing nicely at the 2500 foot tunnel, 1150 feet having already been bored thru the big mountain. Vale Enterprise.
